

You can create branches to later on merge to the master branch. The commits that are made on the feature branch, won't affect the master branch until you merge them